Simplicity and Chic Essential Qualities Of Debutante Clothes

Miss Eighteen Is Hard To Please but Shows Excellent Taste

By Jean Pease

There is no one who chooses a dress more deliberately than the girl of 18. She is very hard to please, but when she does something she likes it, she is equally rewarded for the time and money she has spent. It is not for her to be disappointed.

Every girl has experienced that difficulty of expressing a simplicity which does not assume dressy-made appearance and is at the same time becoming. Moreover, only a young girl can appreciate or render rightly a garment which is unbecomingly simple. I mean by that that the simplicity in the dress is as simple as the girl's personality.

On the other hand, no more charming interpreter of the mode and its whims can be found than the girl between 18 and 20 who is on the brink of womanhood and has lost her girlish appearance. She is distinctly feminine and no more attractive costume can be found than a frock made of some old-fashioned material like tulle or lace worn by a debutante.

Simplicity is an essential quality of the dress for a young girl. The dress of the moment are well suited to her as far as her requirements for the early part of the day are concerned. Her afternoon frocks should be extremely simple both in design and material and always should include some sort of ingenuite trimming. The flimsy type of collar with a bow in the front and deep cuffs to match, although rather both of aspect, are made feminine by the material used and are conspicuous with you. This type of accessory, needless to say, would be "debatable" on a young maid.

For Summer Wear
The most charming young girls dress always are those made of plain material or lace with a design at the same time and carefully studied.

Two years ago I was a great part of the crowd for summer wear at country or seaside resorts. They undoubtedly looked most effective when worn by a young girl. Modern conditions, however, are such that an elaborate dress seems quite out of place and incompatible with the vigorous spirit of life which she leads nowadays.

For an evening dress I think nothing is more becoming to a girl in her teens than a dress of the "period" style in tulle. There are several in my present collection and my preference goes to either a plain color or a graded effect.

Simplicity in Hat
There is another point, the choice of a hat. Here again the utmost simplicity must be the first quality of any hat for a young girl. A too-dressy, or too-elaborate hat is enough to ruin the most simple costume. This applies to all accessories which a young girl wears, and as regards jewelry in particular.

FACIAL EXERCISES

Now and again an advocate of facial exercises receives considerable newspaper publicity and then for a time the subject drops into obscurity. Yet there is some real value in the idea for those who will seek for it and apply it with moderation. One of the best reasons for this is the fact that the face is the most delicate part of the body and the most susceptible to the effects of age.

Whether facial exercise will prove to be beneficial or too drastic in a given case depends on the individual. In general it seems better to begin taking these exercises with

The third personal letter is not limited to social union in Great Britain, but lends also a certain nerve dignity to some of the correspondence of conservative business houses, who use this form when answering enquiries.

Messrs. Lafayette are much obliged for Mr. Laurence Godfrey's esteemed favor of the 2nd April, and for his remittance of 12 lbs. duly in hand. They are proceeding with the two photographs of the late Countess M. in imperial suit, and will post them to Mr. Godfrey's address.

It will be noticed that, as in a social note, the recipient's name and address are not given at the top of the letter, but in some form of signature. Although the communication is typewritten, the typist and director's initials are customary in the graceful form of the late Countess M. are omitted from the formal business letter, which is beginning to be so favored by certain exclusive firms in the United States.

The face is still full and rounded as a preventive measure against wrinkles. The sort of skin that has become badly wrinkled is usually indicative that it will hold the creases caused by the facial exercise. For this type of face a victory of gentle patting massage is best.

Facial exercises are extremely simple. Before beginning them apply a film of cold cream over the skin to make it flexible and to minimize the possibility of the formation of wrinkles. Begin by throwing back your head and yawning once or twice. Next, with mouth half open, draw your lips lightly in and out. Relax and repeat four times. Now purse your lips and twist them first to the right and then to the left ten times, stretching the cheek muscles well and keeping the mouth closed.

The childhood pastime of blowing soap bubbles is another good exercise for the lips and cheeks. Blow them slowly and make a dozen or more large ones. A similar exercise is blowing on a candle. See if you can blow it out when it is held at arm's length.

Dr. Edward H. Emmett, pastor of Manhattan Congregational Church, of New York, says: "I met an old friend on the streets the other day. He is a well known jurist and one of New York's masters of chancery. After asking him about our mutual friend, Dr. Miller, he remarked: 'Dr. Miller is the best informed man I have ever met. I prefer him to any other speaker to whom I have ever listened.'"

"An educator, in charge of the psychological direction of the students of one of our largest American military schools, said in my presence: 'Dr. Miller knows more about the human body and keeping it fit than any other man I have ever known.'"

"One of our Congregational ministers in Brooklyn wrote a letter of appreciation to Dr. Miller, in which he said: 'I am a graduate of Yale. I have taken four post-graduate courses of study; in all, I have spent twelve years of my life in universities. I learned more in the one month I have attended your public lectures and classes—more of practical knowledge and gained more of worth-while information than I obtained in all my university life.'"

"Dr. Miller is the originator of the Modern Popular Psychological Movement. He teaches the significance, the meaning and the achievement of the mental, physical and spiritual trinity. He was giving his talks on Health and Psychology in Paris and London several years before Dr. Coue had learned the fallacy of drugs. 'This is the man I am inviting my fellow British subjects to hear, and the man who will begin his famous series of lesson-lectures in your city on Sunday evening.'"

Eskimos Triumph Over Edmonton in Opening Game British Rugby Season

MICKEY TIMOTHY RUNS 70 YARDS FOR TOUCHDOWN

As Series Indicates, Champions of Last Year Had No Difficulty in Turning in Fine Victory—Thomas Scores for Losers

The Eskimos went on an exciting rampage last night at the South Side Athletic grounds to defeat the Edmonton club 21 to 3 in the first game of the season.

The game was exceptionally good for an opener, and although the score was decided long before the end of the first half, the Eskimos had a good advantage in the backfield play and practically every time they got the ball out of the scrum clearly they broke away for large gains.

The Edmontonians, while not as strong as the visiting Eskimos on the three-quarter line, fought hard to stem the attack and on the whole, the Eskimos may have a good account of themselves.

TO TOUCHDOWN

Mickey Timothy, young Eskimo three-quarter, provided the outstanding feature of the contest with a brilliant performance. He ran a touchdown early in the second half. He also scored in the first half. Marvel Mickey opened the scoring for the Eskimos, a few minutes after the game was underway when he was on the receiving end of a nice passing ball and then rushed to the goal line and scored. He was followed through a few of the opposing players for a try that sent the 1875 champions into the lead. Jones converted it to make the score read 5-0.

The play developed from one end of the field to the other for some time after this with neither club being able to break away into the danger zone. The Eskimos finally counted again towards the end of the game when Timothy got the ball from Power about fifteen yards from the line and went off. Jones missed the convert and the score remained at 5-0 when the half-time whistle blew.

McNeill Again

Shortly after the breather McNeill got the ball in midfield and carried a pass a flock of Edmonton tacklers.

TYRUS, IRIS WILL STICK, SAYS CONNIE

Thinks "Riding" of Veteran Ball Players is Unnecessary

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 27.—Connie Mack, president of some of our better known baseball clubs, and a well-known sportsman, said in a speech before the National Association of Professional Baseball Players, that in spite of the fact that the game of baseball is becoming more and more popular, it is necessary to keep the game in its proper perspective. He said that the game of baseball is not a game of chance, but a game of skill, and that it is necessary to keep the game in its proper perspective.
